This is a shocking reflection on the politicians of Cairo. There is not a politician in the city, democrat or republican, who would accept a nomination for congress, even with the certainty of election staring him in the face. Not one.

POPULAR expectation is not doomed in Washington. to be disappointed in Schuyler Colfax This gentleman has contrived to make it known to the public, that notwithstanding his " no" has been very emphatic for a year or so, yet if his party insist on forcing the candidacy of the vice-presidency on him a second time, he is afraid he cannot find it in his heart to be so discourteous as to throw the nomination back in the teeth of those who offer it. "There is a sweet, pout-'ing simplicity al out this," says the New-York Standard, "which does just-'ice to the womanly qualities of Mr. Colfax's generous nature." Just so.

In another column we publish a resubmitted to Gen. Grant, with his accompanying message to congress. The radical press is overflowing with fulsome praise of the president for his promptness in endorsing the rules laid down by the commissioners. As his acquiescence in them was a foregone conclusion, it is difficult to see in what respect his prised that he has taken the course he has, but the whole country would have been taken back if he had signified a disposition to dissent. But the radicals have a fashion of overwhelming Grant people to some extent, however, and the day is not far distant when Grant will be judged according to his real by blind worshippers.

COMMISSIONERS. diamond star and sleeve-buttons, point THE NEW RULES TO GO INTO E 'FECT ON THE FIRST OF JANUARY, 1872.

PRESIDENTS MESSAGE ACCOMPANYING THE REPORT OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION.

To the Sena'e and House of Representatives : In accordance with an act of Congress, approved March 3, 1871, I convened a commission of eminent gentleman to de-vise rules and regulations for the purpose of reforming the civil service. Their la-bors are now complete, and I transmit herewith their report, together with the rules which they recommend for my action. These rules have been adopted and will go into effect on the 1st day of January, 1872. Under the law referred to, as I interpret it, the authority is already invested in the executive to enforce these regulations, with full power to abridge, alter, or amend at his option when changes may be deemed advisable These views, together with the report of the commissioners, are submitted to your careful consideration, as to whether further legislation may be necessary in order to carry out an effective and beneficial further congressional action, the rules prescribed by the commission, under the reservation already mentioned, will be faithfully executed; but they are not binding, without further legislation, on my successors. Being desirous of bringing this subject to the attention of congress before the approaching recess, I have not time to sufficiently examine the accompanying re-port, to enable me to suggest the deficite legislative action to insure the support legislative action to insure the support which may be necessary, in order to give a thorough trial to a policy long needed. I ask for all the strength which congress can give me, to enable me to carry out the reforms in the civil service recommended and adopted by the commissioners, to take effect, as before stated, on Jan. 1, 1872. The law which provides for the convening of the commission to devise rules and regcommitting suicide by the reprehensible authorizes, I think, the permanent organization of a primary board, under whose general directions all examinations of applicants for public office shall be conducted. There is no appropriation to con-tinue such board beyond the termination of its present labors. I therefore recommend that the proper appropriation be made to continue the services of the board for another year, and in view of the fact that three members of the board hold positions in the public service which pre-cludes them from receiving extra compen sation under the existing laws, that they be authorized to receive fair compensation for the extra service rendered by them in the performance of this duty.

U.S. GRANT. (Signed) U.S. Gr. Executive Mansion, Dec. 19, 1871.

The following are the rules submitted by the Commissioners: 1. No person shall be admitted to any position in the civil service within the appointment of the President or heads of departments who is not a citizen of the United States, who mottoes, "Reine du bal," and "Toujours shall not have furnished satisfactory evidence in regard to character, health, and ter and editor; emigrated to California in 1849; studied law and was admitted to the satisfactory examination in speaking, read-ing, and writing the English language. 2. An advisory board of suitable persons to be employed by the President, under the ninth section of the act of March 3, 1871, entitled "An act making appropriations for sundry civil expenses a republican, receiving 18 264 votes of the government for the fiscal year ending June 39, 1872, and for other purpose, was also elected to the Forty-second conshall, so far as practicable, group the positions in each branch of the official coording to the character that "the absolutoid and abstractoid ele- duties to be performed, and shall grade each group from the lowest to the highest analogy with the related and concreted elaborismus." The Board conductng such competitive examination shall prepare, under the name of Supervision of the Advisory Board, a list of applicants in the order of their excellence, as proved by such examination, beginning with the highest, and shall then certify to the nominsting or appointing power, as the case may be, the names standing at the head of such list, not exceeding three, and from the names there certified the appointment shall be made. 4. A vacancy occurring in any grade of group of officers above the lowest, shall be filled by a competitive examination of applicants from others grades of that group, and the list names from which the appointment is to be made shall be preeding rule; but if no such applicants are found competent the appointment shall be upon an examination of all applicants conducted in accordance with the provisons for admission to the lowest grade. Applicants, certified or otherwise, qualified for appointment as Cashiers, Collectors, Custom Cashiers, Assistant Treas-urers, Postmasters, Superinten-dent of the Money Order Division in Postoffices, and such other custodians of large sums of money as may hereafter be designed by the Advisory Board, and for whose pecuniary fidelity another officer is responsible, shall nevertheless not be appointed except with the approval of such other officer. A Postmaster whose annual salary is less than $200, may be appointed upon a written request of applicants, with such evidence of character and fitness as shall be satisfactory to the head of the Depart-

7. The appointment of all persons entering the civil service in accordance with these regulations, excepting persons ap-pointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Sente, appointments of Postmasters, and persons appointed to any position in a foreign country shall be made for the probationary term of six months, during which the conduet and capacity of such persons shall be tested, and if, at the end of such probationaryfterm, satisfactory proof of their fitness shall have been furnished by the Board of Examiners to the head of the departmout in which they shall have been em-ployed during the said term, thay shall be reappointed.

The President will designate three persons in each department of the public ervice to serve as a Board of Examiners, which, under the supervision of the Advisory Board, and under the regulations to be prescribed by it, and at such times and places as it may determine, shall conduct personally, or by persons approved by the advisory board, all investigations and examinations for admission into said departments, or for promotion therein.

9. Any person who, after long and faithful service in a department, shall be incapacit 1 by mental and bodily infirmtion to a position of less responsibility in the same department. 10. Nothing in these rules shall prevent the appointment of aliens to positions in the consular service, which by reason of small compensation, or of other sufficient cause, are in the judgment of the appointing power necessarily so filled, nor the appointment of such persons within the United States are indispensable to the proper discharge of the duties of certain resituates but who may not be familiar positions; but who may not be familiar with the English language, or legally capable of naturalization.

11. No head of department or subordinate officer of the government shall, as such officer, authorize or permit, or assist in leving any assessment of money for political purposes under the form of vol-untary contribution or otherwise, upon any person employed under his control, nor shall any such person pay any money so assessed.

12. The advisory board shall at any time recommend to the president such change in these rules as it may consider necessary to secure greater efficiency of the civil service. 13. From these rules are excepted the heads of the departments, assistant secretaries of departments, assistant attorney general, and first assistant postmaster general, solicitor general, solicitor of the treasury, naval solicitor, solicitor of internal revenue, examiner of claims in the state department, treasurer of the United States, register of the treasury, first and second controllers of the treasury, judges of the United States courts, district attorneys, private secretary of the president, ambassadors and other public ministers. superintendent of coast survey, director of the mint, governors of territories, special commissioners, special annual visiting and examining boards, persons appointed to positions without compensation for ser-vices, dispatch agents and bearers of dis-

CHESTERFIELD.

The late Lord Chesterfield, who died from typhus fever contracted at the same place where the prince of Wales also caught the disease, was unmarried and brotherless, so that the title will devolve on a collatereral relative. He leaves one sister, who is the wife of Lord Carnaryon, brother of the Hon. Auberon Herbert, and secretary of state in Lord Derby's last cabinet. At the decease of the celebrated Philip Dormer Stanhope, earl of Chester-field, author of the "Letters," the title passed to his nephew. The deceased lord had put a special clause in his will, to the effect that if his heir ever attempted to let or sell Chesterfield house, or ever slept at Newmarket-where Lord Chesterfield himself had lost heavily at the gaming table-he should pay a fine of $25,000 to the dean and chapter of Westminster. His nephew obeyed this injunction strictly. and at his death the estate amounted to clear $200,000. His heir, the father of the late lord, ran a wildly extravagant career, as is well known, and frequently disregarded the ancient injunction in the will Impecuniosity was the result, and the present estates have dwindled considerably from their former magnificence.
